THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY LVENING, SEPTEMBER 12.

LOSS OF BURIED TREASURE.-Last Thursday week Mr. Jos. Sbry and family, living near Luckett's, in this county, attended a Sunday School picuic in the neighborhood. Having a small tin box, containing about $136 in money and a road bill of $8-a total of $144, which they didn't want to carry with them, and were afraid to leave in the house during their absence, lest thieves might break through and steal, Mrs. Shry concluded that she would dig a trench in the garden and bury it. This she dir, and thus, as she supposed, fortified against rogues, the family left for the pionic. But horror of horrors, on their return in the evening they discovered that some one had anticipated them by unearthing the tin box and carrying off the hidden treasure. An evil eye evidently watched the good housewife when she buried the box .- Loudoun Mirror.

DEATH OF AN ENORMOUS WOMAN .- May Carter, colored, who died on Monday night, is said to have been the largest female who has ever died in the southwest. She was a woman of enormous frame and when in woman of enormous frame and when in good health was a giantess, weighing 300 pounds. Some time since she was attacked by dropsy, which swelled her to such enormous proportions that no coffin in the city was nearly large enough to receive her, and Messrs. Oakey & Woolwine were compelled to convert one of the large coffin packing cases into a coffin, which was nicely fixed up and then there was no room to spare .-Roanoke Herald.

THE OLD CHAPEL -The services at the old chapel on Sunday morning were largely attended, the old building not being able to seat all in attendance. Rev. C. B. Bryan conducted the services. It being the center-nial of the erection of this venerable house of worship, a eketch of its interesting history was read by Mr. George H. Burwell, of Millwood. The sketch was prepared by Capt. Wm. Ne son, at the request of Rev Mr. Bryan, and contained many interesting incidents in connection with the history of Cunningham Chapel, by which the Parish was known.—Clarke Courier.
